2. The drawings filed on August 18, 2003 are accepted by the Examiner.
3. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

The closest prior art of record fails to teach or suggest the recited paperback rider instantly redeemable coupon. Independent claims 1 and 25 identify the uniquely distinct features of a substrate that include a first laminate that is adhesively affixed to both the second surface of the booklet and the outer section of the liner, thereby forming a barrier between the booklet and instantly redeemable coupon that is covered by a second laminate, which is adhered to outer section of liner, containing perforations to allow separation of the coupon from the paperback rider while keeping the booklet contained and adhered to the liner. The closet prior art of record,
